

Museums facing their environmental and social responsibilities: towards an ethical and sustainable model

ICOM France and its partners ICOM Canada, ICOM Spain, ICOM Lebanon, ICOM-CC, ICTOP, NATHIST, ICOM Arab, ICOM LAC, and the University of Quebec Trois Rivières are launching a new series of debates dedicated to the development of an ethical and sustainable model in museums.

This series of meetings/debates is intended for museum professionals and will include contributions from colleagues who can share innovative experiences in the field of sustainable development. This notion is understood here in its ecological and societal dimensions.

This cycle will take the form of 6 participative sessions on a digital platform from May to November 2023.

Session 4 Training and research Wednesday 27th September 2023 17:30 - 19:00 (CEST)

The issue of training in eco-responsibility has become central and crosses all sectors of the cultural field. Who are the actors of this training? What are the fundamentals to be taught? The pedagogical tools to be developed?

- Blaise Kilian, Co-director of the Cambodian Museum of Economy and Currency (SOSORO)
- Ernest Kpan, President of ICOM Côte d'Ivoire
- Manuelina Duarte, Professor of Museology at the University of Lusófona and the University of Liège
- Michela Rota, Architect and consultant for museums and sustainable development

The session will be moderated by Hélène Vassal and Rita Capurro, ICTOP members.

It will be held simultaneously in French, English and Spanish. It will be recorded and rebroadcast by ICOM France and its partners.
